

The Affordable Care Act and its Affect on Federal Technicians

You can stay with your FEHB coverage, and all FEHB coverage plans exceed the “minimum essential coverage” required by the law. While the ACA has sparked some level of anxiety generally among insured Americans, the ground rules for FEHB coverage remain largely unaffected for eligible federal employees, retirees and dependents.

With all the talk about Obama Care, many people don't know what they have to do to comply with the law's requirement that almost everyone have insurance beginning in 2014. For those that are uninsured, the key to satisfying that requirement could be the new online health insurance marketplaces, which opened October 1st for shopping and whose policies will go into effect January 1st 2014.

Please contact the 1LT Jerad Johnson at the HRO for more information, or visit the two marketplace websites:

Make Sure to Check the PAA Block

Remember, most Technician Performance Appraisals are in line with the calendar year, starting January 1st and ending December 31st. This means annual appraisals will be due soon.

All appraisals ending December 31st are due no later than January 30th, or 30 days from the end of the appraisal period. Just login to MyBiz to get started.

It can be as easy as 1, 2, 3:

1. Create – Rater drafts, Reviewer approves and Employee acknowledges.

2. Interim Review – Employee completes self assessment, Rater creates an interim review and Reviewer approves.

3. Annual Appraisal – Employee completes self assessment, Rater creates an interim review and Reviewer approves.

If you're a new supervisor of technicians and don't see a MyWorkplace link on the DCPDS Portal page, HRO will ensure you're coded correctly in the system. This new responsibility takes a couple of days to

Rule Change for Completing Service Credit Deposits

In the past, retiring technicians were allowed to make service credit deposits for periods of creditable military service after their date of separation and up to the date their retirements were finalized. The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) has changed their policy so all deposits must now be paid in full prior to the date of your separation or retirement.

You should allow at least 120 days of processing time for your service credit deposits to be completed. This timeframe is dependent on the volume of requests that Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) has and could actually be longer.

If you're anticipating retirement or separation within the next six months, and you want to receive civilian retirement credit for your military service, you should initiate the process immediately.

Changes in Initial Air AGR Tours

To improve the opportunity for supervisors and commanders to evaluate new Air AGRs, the Assistant Adjutant General, Idaho Air National Guard has approved a change in policy beginning on October 1st, 2013. All Initial AGR tours will be a minimum of 3 years vice the previous 1 year. The reasoning behind this change is to ensure the following:

1. So new AGR members have ample opportunity to complete any technical training or upgrade training during their evaluation phase.

THE AIR AGR PROGRAM IS LENGTHENING NEW TOURS

2. Supervisors and commanders are afforded ample time to evaluate new members prior to placing them into the AGR Career program.
3. To provide an appropriate notification period for new AGR members who are not allowed to enter the AGR Career program.

A few exceptions exist to this policy. For example, if you're currently in or are eligible for the Aircrew Retention Program (ARP) you'll have your initial AGR tour meet the appropriate retainability requirements to qualify for the ARP.

This change will improve the Air AGR program and make the commander's Force Management Plan stronger and more flexible. Please don't hesitate to contact the Air AGR Manager if you have any questions.

Forfeiture of Use or Lose Federal Technician Annual Leave

You can only carry a maximum amount of 240 hours of accrued annual leave to the next leave year. Which means you must "use" your excess annual leave by the end of a leave year otherwise you'll "lose" or forfeit it. For 2013 the leave year began January 12th and will end January 11th, 2014.

An agency may consider restoring forfeited annual leave if the reason is under one of the following conditions:

- Exigency of public business or mission demand, which must be of such importance as to preclude the use of scheduled annual leave.
- Sickness, injury or other medical condition for which sick leave is appropriate.
- Administrative error through no fault of the technician.

Regulatory rules require "use or lose" annual leave to be scheduled in writing before the start of the third biweekly pay period prior to the end of the leave year. Military duty is not considered a condition of exigency due to annual leave could be used.

Please contact Gayle Hinrichs at the HRO if you have concerns about forfeiture of accrued annual leave as the window to schedule "use or lose" leave before the end of the leave year is rapidly approaching.

Federal Technician Job Application Process

The Optional Form (OF) 612 will be phased out of the Federal Technician application process by early next year. Resumes will then be the only acceptable documentation detailing your personal information, work history, education, etc.

The Human Resources Office will be conducting resume writing classes in the near future to help you perfect your resume writing skills. Information on the dates and times for this training will be forthcoming.

RESUME WRITING CLASSES COMING

Review the information from last quarter's Employee Information Letter for what to submit with your application package to ensure thorough consideration for the job you're applying for. Failure to include all required documents in your application may result in not being considered for the position.

Please contact TSgt Yvonne Howard for more information.

Army AGR Eligibility for the Career Status Bonus (CSB)

If you entered Army AGR service after July 31, 1986 you're given a choice of two retirement plans when you reach your 15th year of service:

- High-3 Year Average
- Career Status Bonus (CSB)/REDUX

CSB/REDUX electees are eligible to receive a $30,000 bonus but will also have their retired pay calculated at a reduced rate. To receive this bonus, you must agree to complete a twenty-year active duty career with length-of-service retired pay under the 1986 Military Retirement Reform Act or REDUX. Continuation beyond twenty years is possible, however, your commitment with the CSB is only to the 20-year point.

The entire $30,000 bonus, or first installment payment (if you elect the multi-year option), is paid shortly after you commit to the 20-years-of-service obligation, but will result in a reduced retired pay. While Career Status Bonus may seem like an incentive now, it's important you be aware of the effects it will have on your pay in retirement.

The REDUX multiplier calculation and annual cost of living adjustments differ from the High-3 option. REDUX does have a catch-up increase at age 62 that brings your retired pay back to the same amount paid under the High-3 System and is the only military retirement system with this important readjustment feature.

For questions concerning CSB/REDUX eligibility requirements, please call the Army AGR section. Army Retirement calculators are available at:
